

FRENCH

Department

French is spoken by more than 275 million people worldwide. Whether the goal is personal enrichment or enhanced career prospects in the wine industry, the arts, or international relations, learning French enhances global perspectives and builds appreciation of French culture and history.

Occupations

Expertise in French is well-suited to careers in tourism, wine, the arts, and finance, as well as in governmental and non-governmental international organizations. More generally, a degree in a foreign language can prepare students for various career opportunities including, but not limited to, consulting, teaching, editing, and public relations.

- Wine import/export specialists
- Diplomatic or foreign NGO workers
- Interpreters and translators
- Teachers
- Hospitality managers
